President Tinubu Assents To Nigerian Insurance Industry Reform Bill 2025 To Drive Financial Sector Transformation

The recent signing of the Nigerian Insurance Industry Reform Act (NIIRA), 2025 by President Bola Ahmed Tinubu, GCFR, has been widely welcomed as a pivotal step toward achieving Nigeria's economic reform ambitions. The legislation—crafted and sponsored in the Senate by Senator Mukhail Adetokunbo Abiru, FCA, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Banking, Insurance and Other Financial Institutions—sets the insurance sector on a renewed path of growth, inclusion, and global competitiveness.

The NIIRA 2025 is one of the most significant sectoral reforms since the return to democratic governance, and it aligns squarely with the Renewed Hope Agenda of President Tinubu, especially in the area of building a more resilient and investor-friendly economy. The Act replaces outdated legal frameworks with a unified, modern regulatory structure designed to restore public trust and unlock capital in the insurance industry.

Market Confidence Surges After Assent

The capital market responded immediately. On 5 August 2025, the day the President signed the bill into law, trading volume in insurance stocks on the Nigerian Exchange (NGX) spiked by an unprecedented 299.15%, driven by investor confidence in the regulatory clarity introduced by the new law.

Legislative Backbone for a Reformed Economy

Speaking on the objectives of the reform, Senator Abiru noted:

“NIIRA 2025 is a structural and economic intervention. It was not written to benefit insurance industry alone, but to protect Nigerians, support businesses, and inspire confidence in our institutions. That's the essence of the Renewed Hope we all share.”

He commended leadership of

“NIIRA 2025 is a structural and economic intervention. It was not written to benefit insurance industry alone, but to protect Nigerians, support businesses, and inspire confidence in our institutions. That's the essence of the Renewed Hope we all share.”

NASS, ably led by His Excellency, Godswill Akpabio, fellow committee members for their commitment and bipartisan support in delivering a piece of legislation that has far-reaching implications for the financial stability and growth of the country.

“This reform reflects the shared vision of the executive and legislature,” he added. “It shows that with the right leadership and alignment of purpose, Nigeria's economic ambitions are not only realistic—they are achievable.”

What the Law Changes

The NIIRA 2025 repeals and consolidates the Insurance Act 2003, the Marine Insurance Act 1945, the Re-insurance Act, and NICON Act. It replaces them with a forward-looking regulatory framework that empowers the National Insurance Commission (NAICOM) to act with greater effectiveness.

Key reforms introduced include:

- Increased capital adequacy thresholds for insurers and reinsurers
- Digitisation of insurance operations for efficiency and accessibility
- Timelines and penalties for claims resolution delays
- Establishment of policyholder protection fund.
- Enforcement of compulsory insurance schemes (motor, buildings, workers' cover)

- Support for cross-border insurance via the ECOWAS Brown Card Scheme

A Regulator Empowered, a Sector Repositioned

NAICOM, the apex regulatory body, has embraced the legislation. In its official statement titled “The Dawn of a New Era”, the Commission described NIIRA 2025 as a “transformative milestone” that will deepen insurance penetration, attract investments, and protect the rights of policyholders.

“With this law, we are better positioned to safeguard the Nigerian public and ensure the insurance sector contributes meaningfully to national GDP,” the Commission stated.

The law is expected to not only improve service delivery but also unlock growth across strategic sectors such as health, agriculture, SMEs, and infrastructure.

Renewed Hope in Action

For President Tinubu, the NIIRA Act exemplifies the kind of reform-driven policy architecture required to meet the administration's $1 trillion economy target. It supports a private-sector led economy while offering enhanced safety nets for citizens and investors alike.

SENATE ORDERS INVESTIGATIVE PUBLIC HEARING ON CBEX SCAM, OTHER PONZI SCHEMES

The Nigerian Senate has ordered a comprehensive investigative public hearing on the Crypto Bullion Exchange (CBEX) scam, that left many Nigerians devastated, losing over ₦1.3 trillion.

of Nigerians with the promise of outrageous returns, before suddenly collapsing and resulting in investors losing over ₦1.3 trillion (about $847 million), making it one of the most devastating financial scams in the country's history;

The resolution was reached at the Senate plenary session, following the motion sponsored by the Chairman, Senate Committee on Banking, Insurance and other Financial Institutions, Senator Mukhail Adetokunbo Abiru, FCA (Lagos East) and Senator Osita Bonaventure Izunaso (Imo West). The Senate also noted that the investigative hearing will also extend to other ponzi schemes, where Nigerians lost humongous fortunes.

“Also notes that the CBEX incident is not an isolated case, but part of an existing and growing pattern of unregulated and fraudulent schemes leveraging technology, and social media to deceive the public, often using tactics such as referral commissions, celebrity endorsements, and fake testimonials to build credibility and drive recruitment”.

The lawmaker was equally worried that relevant regulatory and security agencies could not stop the scheme in the tracks. “Shocked that despite the scale of operations and visibility of CBEX, it operated for an extended period without facing sanctions by either the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), the Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN), the Nigerian Financial Intelligence Unit (NFIU), or the Economic and Financial Crimes Commission (EFCC)” Abiru lamented.

Senator Abiru, while presenting the motion noted that “The economic wellbeing and financial security of Nigerian citizens are essential pillars of national stability and growth, and that it is the duty of government to protect the populace from exploitative, predatory and fraudulent financial practices and schemes that threaten their livelihoods;

“Deeply concerned about the rapid proliferation and alarming rise of unregulated and fraudulent investment schemes—commonly known as Ponzi or pyramid schemes such as MMM Nigeria in 2016; MBA Forex in 2020, to mention a few—which have repeatedly defrauded millions of Nigerians, causing severe financial hardship and, in some cases, driving victims to depression, family breakdowns, and even suicide;

“Notes in particular the recent case of Crypto Bullion Exchange (CBEX), a digital investment platform which lured millions

Senator Muhammed Monguno (Borno North), Senator Sulaiman Umar Sadiq (Kwara North), Senator Solomon Adeola Olamilekan (Ogun West), Senator Adamu Aleiro (Kebbi Central), all supported the motion. The Senate thereafter mandated its Joint Committees on Capital Market; Banking, Insurance and Other Financial Institutions; Anti-Corruption and Financial Crimes, and ICT & Cyber Security to conduct a comprehensive investigative hearing, including public hearing, on the operations of Ponzi schemes in Nigeria, and report back in four weeks.

“This reform reflects the shared vision of the executive and legislature,” he added. “It shows that with the right leadership and alignment of purpose, Nigeria’s economic ambitions are not only realistic—they are achievable.”

That the bill emerged from the 10th National Assembly, driven by a legislator like Senator Abiru—who brings both financial sector expertise and public accountability—is a signal that the Renewed Hope Agenda is not mere rhetoric, but a roadmap being translated into action.

A Reform for the People

At its core, NIIRA 2025 serves the Nigerian people. It protects policyholders from abuse, ensures swift claims processing, and expands access to cover across rural and urban areas. With more Nigerians expected to come under the insurance net, the law is poised to reduce economic vulnerability and support financial inclusion nationwide.

Senator Abiru reaffirmed this:

“The real winners are the people—families, small business owners, workers—who can now rely on a legal framework that puts their interests first.”

NIIRA 2025 is more than a legal instrument. It is a reform with real economic weight, supported at the highest levels of government, and driven by a coalition of public servants committed to doing good. With this legislation, Nigeria’s insurance sector enters a new era—one marked by purpose, protection, and progress.

The event, adjudged as one of the largest empowerment exercises in the district's history, underscored what many described as governance rooted in compassion, inclusion and tangible outcomes, which prioritised sustainable economic support, social intervention and a reaffirmation of people-focused leadership.

Senator Abiru, who chairs the Senate Committee on Banking, Insurance and other Financial Institutions, while addressing a cross-section of traditional rulers, political and community leaders, party faithful, women groups, youths and artisans, said the programme was a continuation of his commitment to delivering “greater good to larger number” of his constituents across Lagos East Senatorial District.

He described the intervention as a deliberate effort to strengthen the grassroots economy and create a sustainable pathway to inclusive growth.

Beyond the cooperatives, about 2,000 constituents received empowerment items and starter kits aimed at promoting self-reliance and sustainable livelihoods. The items include Freezers, Generator, Grinding Machines, Industrial Sewing Machines, Head dryers, among several others.

Over 84,000 households across Lagos East Senatorial District have benefitted from the food pack distribution programme initiated by Senator Mukhail Adetokunbo Abiru, FCA, in his sustained effort to cushion the effects of economic hardship, particularly during festive seasons.

In the most recent phase of the outreach, held in December 2025, in celebration of end of the year festivity, food packs, each containing rice and garri, were distributed across all 16 Local Government Areas (LGAs) and Local Council Development Areas (LCDAs) within the district.

To ensure the programme reached those in genuine need, a transparent and community-inclusive selection mechanism was adopted. Beneficiaries were nominated through an online platform made available to residents of Lagos East, allowing community members to recommend vulnerable individuals and families within their neighbourhoods. These entries were then reviewed and verified by the Senator's constituency office, working in partnership with local leaders, civil society actors, and faith-based institutions. Special attention was given to the elderly, people living with disabilities, widows, women-led households, and unemployed youth, ensuring the intervention prioritised those facing the greatest economic pressures.
